OBJECTIVE

I am a student of Information Systems for Business who is looking for more growing opportunities in IT developing at Apple Developer Academy. I am thorough and I see things through with patience. I give my all to every work I take up; I see things done with passion and resilience. I believe this journey will give me the chance to acquire numerous insightful experiences and allow me to earn new skills as well as harness the ones I already have. Even though there is still much for me to know, there will always be room for me to learn, and I will not hesitate to put my mind, time, and effort into it.
